

Hold Fast to the Dollar.

THERE is an old saying that "any fool can make a dollar, but it takes a wise man to hold it." There is one sure way of holding the dollar, and that is to bank it. When a man deposits his surplus cash he is loath to draw it out. On the contrary, if he carries the money on his person there always is the temptation to spend. Bank your money with us.

TALKS ON THRIFT

Hold Fast to What You Have

If there is anything more pathetic than the man who never had a home, or friends, or money, it is the man who had a home and did not appreciate it; friends and could not keep them; money and lost it.

The world is full of derelicts, and every town has its "has-beens" who once "were"—had and could not keep. It is a sad commentary on human life that men must work and sacrifice and save; practice thrift for years; accumulate a competence, and for one reason or another lose it all, and begin over again worse by far, except for the experience.

Men who were once citizens of affluence will be found in the bread line, sleeping in the parks at night, living on relatives, in the poorhouse, selling shoestrings on Broadway, when by better management they might have been in comfortable circumstances.

There are two principal reasons why men lose what they have acquired: First, by being an "easy mark," lending to friends and relatives and unable to say "no" to a request for help or an alluring proposition. Second, the desire to make money fast—not by gambling, but by trying to get a large income from a small principal. The stories of men who have acquired considerable money, and in the desire to make it grow fast have lost it all would fill a book, and no caution is more opportune than this: Hold fast to what you have.

A few basic and common-sense rules will, if persistently followed, save those who heed them many a pang of regret:

First: Do not lend your friends. Friendship loans are bad; it is a delicate matter to ask for your money.

Second: Never endorse a note for anybody. More losses and business disasters have come about through lending one's name to promissory notes than perhaps any single cause. If you want to help a friend and have the money to spare better make a gift of it than to lend it. If you try to deceive yourself that it is a loan, if you can't keep your friends without lending them money better lose them; friends are easier made than money.

Third: Put your money in a good bank and leave it there. Experience has proven that the average man can do no better than bank his money, for in making private investments risk attends and loss often follows. There are thousands of good banks, and one is no doubt in your town, and bank books are mighty good investments.

Fourth: If you accumulate enough to warrant private investment be satisfied with five per cent, and never aim to get more than six. Danger lies beyond six per cent.

Fifth: Experience has again proven the country over that first mortgage on improved property at not over 50 per cent of a fair market value is the most satisfactory form of investment and yields the highest returns compatible with safety. Savings banks specializing in mortgage loans, and you can get their lead with safety.

Sixth: Before making any investment ask your banker if it is legal for him and if he would make it; and if not legal question it carefully, and if he turns it down refuse it.

Seventh: Never buy lands you have not seen. Millions have been lost in buying lots on the installment plan, particularly in large cities. The promoter will make the profit, not you. These rules are simple, safe and easily followed. You won't go wrong if you heed them. They come out of bitter experience, and why should you pay the price for knowledge other men have paid? Get all you can—honestly, and keep it when once it is yours.—Adv.

HOLLWEG FAILS TO COMMIT HIMSELF

German Chancellor, in Speech, Endeavors to Hit at Safe Middle Course.

Amsterdam, May 16. — In cautious terms, without the slightest hints at detailed conditions, the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, in the reichstag offered peace to Russia.

Germany, he said, would not make impossible demands and thus block the road to peace and friendship, if Russia abandoned her ambitions for conquest.

On the terms of peace with Russia separately or the entente generally, he refused to commit himself. He declined to reply to the interpellations of the conservatives, who clamor for conquest and annexation, and of the socialists, who want peace without annexation.

In an endeavor to hit at a safe middle course, the chancellor said he would neither set forth a program of conquest nor a program which would vitiate the success of the German armies. He said:

"I thoroughly and fully understood the passionate interest of the people in war aims and peace conditions. I understood the call for clearness which today is addressed to me from the Right and Left. But in discussion of war aims the only guiding line for me is early and satisfactory conclusion of the war. Beyond that I cannot do or say anything."

In the same session Georg Ledebour, a leader of the Socialists, boldly asserted that a revolution similar to the revolution in Russia will break out if Germany continues "the war for subjugation." He declared the Socialists are working to effect a republic in Germany.

"We shall propose a constitutional committee to take preparatory steps in the direction of introducing a republic in Germany," Ledebour shouted.

CHOATE, EX-ENVOY TO GREAT BRITAIN, DIES

New York, May 16. — Telegrams of condolence from hundreds of men and women in private and public life poured in at the home of Joseph Hodges Choate, eminent lawyer, statesman and diplomat, who died May 14. They came not only from almost every state in the Union, but from far and wide abroad. He was 85 years old. Choate's death came as a climax to three days of strenuous effort as a member of the entertainment committee that welcomed the French and British war commissions to New York. It was unexpected and no physician was present. Only Mrs. Choate and her daughter, Miss Mabel, were at his bedside. Heart disease was given as the cause of death, superinduced by over exertion at banquets and public receptions for the visiting war commissions.

For many years Choate was the most prominent figure in the legal profession in the United States. It was as trial counsel—a jury lawyer—that he was best known. So remarkable were his successes that it was a generally conceded fact that the retention of Joseph H. Choate as counsel in a case ensured success. Choate never held but one political office—that as ambassador to the court of St. James. He accepted the post, tendered to him by President McKinley in 1899, after he had retired from the active practice of law.

Want Sunday on Bowery.

New York, May 16. — They want "Billy" Sunday on the Bowery. "Jimmy" Kelly, gang leader, is willing to hire a hall for the evangelist to come down and preach a "boogie" sermon to those of the underworld.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

Nothing But the Truth.

"Yes," said Stormington Barnes, "we did well in the West. At a one-night stand in Arizona we played to a $10,000 house."

"Say, what are you giving me?" queried Walker Ties.

"Facts," answered the great and foot-sore tragedian. "The one man who comprised the audience was said to be worth fully that amount."

No Cause for Alarm.

Mrs. Newpop—John, dear, do you think so much bread and molasses is good for the baby?

Newpop—Sure it is. Bread is the staff of life, you know.

Mrs. Newpop—Oh, I suppose the bread won't hurt him—but so much molasses, my dear; he leaves it on the chairs and door knobs.

Realistic Story.

"Have you reviewed that new book entitled 'The Editor's Purse'?" asked the critic's other half.

"I merely glanced through it," replied the masculine end of the sketch. "There's absolutely nothing in it."

Nothing New.

Hiker—They say that tents will last two or three times as long if they are given a coat of tar.

Piker—That is why people are always pitching their tents, I suppose.

So Paw Says.

Little Lemuel—Say, paw, what is a man of untold wealth?

Paw—A man of untold wealth is usually a tax dodger, my son.

GOING TOO FAR.

"Is this a model prison?" asked the visitor.

"Oh, yes," replied the cultured "lifer." "You should hear our prison band. Our baseball team is one of the best in the country, while our literary and debating societies are positively brilliant."

"Wonderful!"

"We are even planning to organize an eating club to camp six or eight weeks every summer in the mountains near by, but the authorities are a trifle dubious about that."

SOMETHING YOU WILL LIKE.

Something new is hard to find; but someone will find among these something new as well as suggestive of other combinations which will be easy to prepare.

Pineapple Salad With Golden Dressing. — Arrange slices of pineapple in nests of head lettuce, sprinkle with cream cheese which has been put through a ricer, fill the holes with large yellow cherries and serve with the golden dressing which is to be passed with wafers.

Golden Dressing.—Take a fourth of a cupful each of pineapple juice, orange or cherry juice, and lemon juice, heat in a double boiler, beat two eggs lightly; add a half cupful of sugar, pour over the hot juice and cook until smooth, remove to a dish of cold. This dressing is good with any fruit salad.

Virginia Baked Ham.—Soak six or eight pounds of smoked ham over night, drain and bring to the boiling point. Remove the skin, dot over with peanut butter, stick in a dozen cloves and place fat side up in the roasting pan. Put a little peanut butter with some celery or celery seed in the pan with four bay leaves, adding a little water, baste occasionally and roast three hours. Use a half pound of peanut butter; this gives the flavor so well liked in peanut-fet hogs.

Delicious Sweet Potatoes.—Peel and cook sweet potatoes, mash, using three cupfuls; add a half cupful of sugar, a fourth of a cupful each of butter and raisins, a fourth of a cupful of pecans, a third of a teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of cinnamon or nutmeg. Pile after beating into a baking dish, dot with quartered marshmallows and brown in the oven. This is an especially pretty dish as well as tasty.

Cymeline or Summer Squash.—This delicious vegetable is in season in the South and for those who can afford them in the North. Cook, mash and season them generously with butter and salt, with a dash of pepper. Place in a baking dish, cover with crumbs and bits of bacon; bake till the crumbs are brown; serve from the baking dish.

French toast, fried bread as sandwiches with cheese, to serve with a salad of lettuce is a good dish, and nourishing.

KNOWN BY HIS BAD LATIN

American Scholar Tells How He Was Recognized Without Being Seen While Traveling Abroad.

When that distinguished surgeon, Dr. W. W. Keen, enjoyed his eightieth birthday, that other eminent scholar, Joseph G. Rosengarten, called to pay his respects. And Mr. Rosengarten told a story, writes Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

He was riding in a diligence in Switzerland when he heard voices from without which made him think that at least one of them was an American. So he hailed them in English.

As there was no response, the Philadelphia linguist called out in French. Still there was no reply to his salutation, and Mr. Rosengarten spoke in German, but he was greeted only with silence.

"Finally," said he, "I thought I would try a little Latin, whereupon a round voice from on top of the vehicle called down:

"That's you, Joe Rosengarten. I'm sure of it, because you never could pronounce Latin correctly."

The other American aboard was Dr. Horace Howard Furness.

"This incident," said the philosopher Mr. Rosengarten, "convince one that he may be identified by his mistakes as well as by his victories."—Girard, in Philadelphia Ledger.

Prairie Dog Feud.

A curious feud has been noticed in the prairie dog village of the New York Zoological society, but, though it has resulted in exciting incidents, the warfare does not seem to have reached a sanguinary stage. The opposing sides are the animals in the northerly burrows of the enclosure and a group in hillocks of the southwest portion. Such maneuvers as nervous popping out and drawing back of heads, shaking of black-tipped tails and shrill calls of squawking sentries are conspicuous. The clans finally sallied forth to attack and any adversary sitting up is assaulted and, amid a volley of chattering taunts, is knocked over backward. Retreat is hailed as a decisive defeat. When a dog dives into a burrow his opponent gleefully fills the mouth of the hole with loose earth and vigorously tamps it down by butting with his head. Under the humiliation of his capture the buried dog does not attempt to dig out for an hour or more.

Dry-Clean Your Curtains.

Everyone likes clean curtains, but it is something of an ordeal frequently to wash and stretch them. The following method of cleansing will keep them fresh without washing for a long time. Rub them in cornmeal, then gently brush and shake them, or let them hang in a brisk wind for a while. You will be delighted to see how clean they will look.

To Clean Cut Glass.

Cut glass should be washed in hot soapuds and left to drain. When the air has dried it, rub briskly with a Turkish towel which leaves no lint and gets down into the cuts better than ordinary toweling.

In Line.

"What sort of a slow curve are you lobbying over there?"

"We've finished baseball practice for the day," answered the head of the squad. "This is bombing practice, old top."

Drug in the Market.

"I suppose you are rich at last. You used to manufacture a food product."

"Not a food product—an appetizer. Nobody can afford to have it around now."

For Baby's Hair.

White vaseline rubbed on baby's head is excellent for promoting the growth of the hair.
